

Station:

Although the house burned in 1923, many original buildings still remain at the site. Two large cement grain silos (not yet built in this photo), a railroad shipping station (upper mid-right) and various smaller houses and structures sit near the highway junction.